This can be a messy process and the user may need to tend to the mop while it is on its back and the mop is dirty. In some cases, mops have been provided with built in cleaning solution. These mops need to be repeatedly dipped into a container containing the cleaning solution. Again, the user needs to continually replenish the cleaning solution or walk around the room to replenish the cleaning solution. Cleaning solution degrades over time. In other words, as the cleaning solution degrades the cleaning ability of the solution decreases and the effectiveness of the cleaning solution reduces. There has been some efforts made to provide a glass mop
