The string is passed as a function parameter array("17/11/2011","11/12/2011","11/13/2011","15/13/2011") In my function, the array parameter should be in the following format. array(array("17/11/2011","11/12/2011","11/13/2011"),array("15/13/2011")); How can I do this? I am using php A: You need to first explode the string into an array of two strings (separated by /) then explode that array of two strings into an array of four strings (separated by /) and then implode that array back into a single string. You can use explode() to split your string into the format you want and implode() to join the array elements. Sarray = array("17/11/2011","11/12/2011","11/13/2011","15/13/2011"); Soutput = explode("/",Sarray[0]); Soutput = array_merge(Soutput,explode("/",Sarray[1])); Soutput = array_merge(Soutput,explode("/",Sarray[2])); Soutput = array_merge(Soutput,explode("/",Sarray[3])); Soutput = implode("/",Soutput); A: Using array_map('str_getcsv', $your_array
